

Lynne Goyuk Comes Back to Her Roots - Joins League School as Admissions Coordinator

Lynne Goyuk's first job was as an intern at the Peabody School in Newton, where she worked in a special needs classroom. She notes this is a bit of kismet - the League School's first location was at the Peabody School. Her career has come full circle when she was hired in January as the school's Admissions Coordinator.

In Massachusetts, all persons who are 18 years or older are presumed competent to manage their educational choices, exercise their legal rights, give informed consent to their medical care, and manage their own money. However, if that same person happens to have an intellectual disability, is he or she able to make those decisions independently?

Join League School for a special presentation on Navigating the guardianship process
Wednesday, March 18th from 6:00-7:30pm in the Vetstein Auditorium

League Board member, Daryl Cameron Every, Esq. and League staff, Rachel Sletzing, LICSW, will explain the guardianship process from start to finish and help you decide whether guardianship is the correct route for protecting your child's rights to proper care and services. All are welcome to attend this free presentation.
