

Executive Director Frank Gagliardi, EdD, Bids League School Adieu

Frank Gagliardi, League School's Executive Director, bids adieu to the school at the end of this month. When he announced his plans for this June's retirement last fall, he didn't imagine the surreal time we'd be in this spring, but he's leaving the school on strong footing that will enable it to continue to thrive.

School Prepares for Reopening on July 13th

If the state metrics for COVID-19 continue their downward trend, and the state continues with its reopening as planned, the League School of Greater Boston will resume in-person classes on Monday, July 13. To facilitate a smooth transition, the League School is putting in place the following plan of action. Read more

5 Ways Technology will

League School of Greater Boston's premier event, the Night of Champions, is postponed until later in the fall. We will be honoring those who have championed the work of the League School and the greater autism community: Retiring Executive Director, Frank Gagliardi; Detroit Lions and former Patriots player, Duron Harmon, and his wife, Christine; and Direct Federal Credit Union. Stay tuned for additional details.

Falmouth Road Race Participation Postponed

Contribute to School Post Reopening

The COVID-19 pandemic accelerated adoption of technology during the day school's closure. If there's a silver lining in the pandemic, it's that we've all learned how these tools can improve academic, support, and communication needs. Learn more. Read more

New Clinical Services Staff Tout Collaboration Before and During COVID-19

The League School recently welcomed four new clinical services staff to the team. They all express enthusiasm about the school's team-based approach to helping students develop to their fullest potential, and that sentiment has only strengthened since the move to remote learning. Read more

Two New Friends of League Bring Special Commitment to School's Mission

The Friends of League School recently welcomed new members Jon Meterparel and Keith Esthimer. They share a commitment to the school's mission of helping students with autism live to their fullest potential: socially, emotionally, academically, and behaviorally. Read more

Each year, outside support helps us close a financial gap between tuition and the true cost of providing the resources needed for our students to succeed. That support is needed now more than ever as we work to create new learning opportunities while facing so many challenges and uncertainties. Please consider supporting League School by making a donation before June 30th.
