Friendly Staff and Welcoming Environment Attract New Employees to School

The League School’s newest employees cite the welcoming environment as the reason they were attracted to work for the school. “The atmosphere of the League School was attractive – everyone seemed so happy,” said new Director of Residential Education, Jillian Roche. “I was very impressed with how much the staff love and care for the students.” Keke Butterfield, the school’s new Nurse Manager, concurs. “People are very friendly, helpful, and approachable,” she said. “As a new hire, it’s been an awesome experience.” Learn more about Jillian and Keke and their reasons for joining League School.

New Sharing our Strength Group Provides Education and Support to Parents and Guardians

The League School recently launched a new initiative for parents and guardians that provides helpful support and education. In keeping with the school’s goal of encouraging parents and guardians to be involved in the ongoing education of their child, the school launched the Sharing our Strength program. “In keeping with our objectives, by combining parent and guardian expertise with the school’s know-how, we can create a team that maximizes students’ development,” said Stephanie Steen, Director of Clinical and Behavioral Services.
